fascinating autobiography about one of the greatest evangelists of our time. This book will motivate you to follow JESUS and share your faith just like Ray Comfort.

From years of coming facetoface with unbelievers on the street, answering their questions, and facing down their arguments, Comfort has a wealth of experience and advice for anyone interested in doing the same thing. His concern for the watered-down gospel that is being preached in many quarters is countered by his commitment to sharing God's holiness and the inherent sinful nature of man. Christians who want to be on the frontlines of the battle for souls will find Comfort Food an inspiring account of how one man called of God can make a difference by just following the title of Ray Comfort's award-winning TV show, the Way of the Master.

About the Author Ray Comfort, a native New Zealander, began his ministry with a burden for his lost friends. After attending the funeral of a friend who had died from a drug overdose, Ray published an eight-page pamphlet called My Friends Are Dying. This pamphlet gained substantial publicity and was later expanded to a paperback book. As a result, Ray received many opportunities to speak to youth about the ultimate answer to the drug problem: Jesus Christ. Shortly after this, Ray began praying for an opportunity to share his faith publicly. He soon learned his hometown, Christchurch, had recently legalized public speaking in the local square. Ray began preaching the gospel outdoors, and this became the daily focus of his ministry. Ray has written more than 35 books and spoken at almost 700 churches. His ministry has included pastoring a church, hosting a Christian radio program, writing a newspaper column called Words of Comfort, and serving as a regular platform speaker at Southern Baptist State Conferences. Ray lives in Bellflower, California, with his wife, Sue, and their three children.
