Goofy but OKBy SafeCopLook at the cover picture and you pretty much know what you are getting. Amusing stories but nothing side-splitting or worth repeating.

You'll be shocked and amazed. You'll laugh and cry as you discover what it is really like being a big city cop! Cop Tales! is a collection of short stories told in gritty street vernacular full of humor from a Chicago Police veteran's hindsight. Cop Tales! takes you from the harsh realities of being a cop to the comical side of the human condition.

Brief but true stories that stimulate your sense of justice: You couldn't make this stuff up if you tried! -- Father Thomas Nangle, Chicago Police Department Chaplain "Cline's 'Cop Tales' are raw, humorous and well spun, as tales should be." -- Cynthia Brown, Editor, American Police Beat "Cop Tales!", sometimes too revealing, nails what being a cop is really about including the laughs, triumph and tragedy. -- Bill Nolan, President, Lodge #7 Fraternal Order of Police About the Author Tom Cline has been with the Chicago Police Department since 1968. He worked a beat car as a patrol officer, investigated hate crimes before they were called that, was "Officer Friendly" to thousands of Chicago's school children as well as their D.A.R.E. and G.R.E.A.T. officer. The last 3 years he has been writing curriculum and training police recruits at Chicago's Police Academy . He wrote their Leadership and Ethics programs. Cline is happily married with seven children, one of each. His alter ego, "Rooster T. Magic Clown" is pictured on the front cover of Cop Tales!
