This is a version of parenting I can take seriously!By Aussa LorensThis book is perfect for anyone who rolls their eyes at the “SanctiMommies” who offer advice on how to be a perfect mother in 10,000 steps. The stories collected here will make you laugh, cry, and want to offer a fist bump of solidarity that you too have secretly felt smug when watching your misbehaving child’s balloon sail off into the sky.

This collection of writers perfectly capture the moments of panic and desperation that pour out from this mysterious brand of love known as “mothering.” No one tells you that sometimes you have to violently break down a door or employ Teddy Grahams as a bribe. The irreverent humor in this book—like “visions of pedophiles danced in my head”—is the reason I’m buying it as a gift for my Sister-in-Laws and friends who are Mommies. I’m pretty sure everyone I know needs to read the story about the lengths a Mother went to while calming her child as she got a pap smear. I simultaneously laughed out loud and shuddered in horror. If you’ve ever experienced a “playdate tragedy” or decided it’s no longer worth attempting to shower, this book is for you. You have found your people. Embrace them. 9 of 9 people found the following review helpful. Grand slam for the mommy blogs! By Kindle Customer This book paired with a drink, curled up on the couch after putting my kids to bed at age 33 on a weekend night was equivalent to the pleasure as I had at age 23 partying the night away. Reading it you kind of feel like you just spent time chatting it up with some fellow mommy friends. The stories were laugh out loud funny and some of them very familiar to situations I have found myself in. Couldn't be more pleased with this particular purchase. Only regret was that I read through it too fast. 6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. hilarious! By K. Sinclair All my favorite mommy bloggers are at it again. I laughed out loud, almost cried in solidarity, and generally tore through this book in two days ... all the while with a toddler begging me to get my nose out of my phone. Thanks, ladies!
