picture!By Marleni LleninWonderfully funny and lighthearted jabs at herself and life in general in this lovely little gem of a book. I think anyone reading it will relate to the situations Alena describes and will find themselves wishing they had as humorous a take on life's little ups and downs. Strongly recommended when you need a hearty laugh.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. It was a good book, but not one of my favoritesBy Joan M.

DefilippoSome are really funny, LOL funny. Some are dull. I am in the middle of it, started another book in the meantime as this is one you can go back to without missing anything as it's written in short stories, which I like.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. This... So much this... So very much this...By Johnny TsunamiThis book is hilarity at its finest. I laughed, I cried, I laughed, I passed out, I rehydrated, and then I laughed and cried some more. Alena Dillon is the funniest person in the world.

From mourning the finale of a beloved television series to accidentally attending a pole dancing class intended for professional strippers, this collection captures life's absurdities through the perspective of an every-woman. Alena Dillon invites readers to laugh along with her as she reflects on universal experiences including diet frustration (The devil is in the Doritos), as well as situations uniquely Dillon's own, such as pounding on the side of a moving Mister Softee truck. Her widely recognizable stories of love, rejection, body image, snarky baristas, bargain hunting, ill-timed snorting and, of course, public urination, will leave you reeling.

"Gems of hilarity...these vignettes are silly, goofy, and incredibly enjoyable."--Sara Benincasa, Agorafabulous!

"Fiercely entertaining...A fun and funny read, with heart and smarts."--Gina Barreca, It's Not That I'm Bitter, or How I Learned to Stop Worrying About Visible Panty Lines and Conquered the World "Dillon exposes the humor inherent in that most human of fascinations: our personal experiences. Dillon's essays are specific and universal; more important, they are good fun to read. Brava!"--Elizabeth Hilts, Every Freaking! Day with Rachell Ray: An Unauthorized ParodyAbout the AuthorAlena Dillon is a writer, reader, snorter, careless baker, and sitcom watcher.
