

I Would Have Bought You A Cat , But... A Get Fuzzy Gift Book

Darby Conley

*ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

Download

Read Online

#1008987 in Books 2003-05 2003-06-02Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 5.70 x .50 x 5.70l, .30 #File Name: 074073495480 pages | File size: 55.Mb

Darby Conley : I Would Have Bought You A Cat , But... A Get Fuzzy Gift Book before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised I Would Have Bought You A Cat , But... A Get Fuzzy Gift Book:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy S.S.Cute book!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. If you know how it is living with a crazy cat.....By Storm GirlAwesome, just awesome. If you like Get fuzzy or own a cat, or you just like cats, or you know some one that likes cats, or hell if you are down and just need a little laugh, this is the book for you! It's not long, not wordy in any way, just short and to the point (not unlike my review) It's not a long book and probably takes all of 5 minutes to read but a great one to read anytime0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I didn't realize this wasn't a regular book.....oh, well....it was a fun short read.By DEOIt was ok. Would have rathered a book of strips. I wish I would have read the reviews first. I enjoyed it tho.

"The humor is a wickedly authentic blend of young-professional-bachelor shtick and pets-from-hell high jinks. . . . And, perhaps best of all, the strip keeps getting better." Indeed, Get Fuzzy has rocketed to the top of the list of syndicated newspaper strips. It now appears in 250 newspapers, including the Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Examiner, Chicago Tribune, Boston Globe, Detroit Free Press, Philadelphia Inquirer, and Seattle Times. Readers can't get enough of the goofy trio that populate this hilarious strip: Rob Wilco, the single, mild-mannered advertising executive, and his two rambunctious pets, Bucky, the sharp-fanged, self-absorbed cat, and Satchel, the easygoing mixed-breed dog who ends up on the receiving end of Bucky's mischief. The combination creates Get Fuzzy's astutely witty take on relationships between the species. Now, in a size and format that's perfect for die-hard fans and those looking for the perfect gift, I Would Have Bought You a Cat, But . . . will become the must-have little treasure for everyone who craves a bit more of the trademark Get Fuzzy foolishness, or just enjoys a good chuckle.

From Publishers Weekly This palm-sized gift book by the author of The Dog Is Not a Toy and Groovitude presents an amusing look at the life of Bucky, a gregarious house cat and star of the syndicated comic strip "Get Fuzzy." Each spread matches a cartoon panel with a pithy aphorism regarding the flaws and foibles of the domestic feline and his relations with owner, Rob Wilco, and cohabitating dog, Satchel. "Cats are paranoid," Conley writes, and presents Bucky opining about Satchel's murderous intentions, much to the gentle mutt's chagrin. "Cats have bad breath," he reports, next to a picture of Rob roused by the stink of Bucky's tuna fish breath. "Cats have overinflated egos," Conley notes, and shows Bucky clawing the air saying, "Ha! Ya! Fa-tang! Fa-tang! Ole! This movie rocks! I would make such an awesome gladiator! All I need is a good gladiator name!" Often, the book presents jokes like this-sort of amusing but not fully fleshed out, and dependent on fairly intimate knowledge of the comic strip's rhythms. It's not enough to be a cat fan for this one-enthusiasm for Bucky specifically is required. Copyright 2003 Reed Business Information, Inc. About the Author Get Fuzzy first appeared in newspapers in 1999. Darby Conley lives in Boston, with four cats and three boxes of Band-Aids.