One of America's favorite speakers, Ken Davis joins Wisconsin's famed "cheeseheads" at the restored Vaudeville Theater in Sheboygan for this brilliant performance in which he pays tribute to veterans, explores the differences between men and women and ponders the question: "Is it just me?"

From AudioFileHumorist and public speaker Ken Davis spends a fun-filled evening with Wisconsin's self-proclaimed "cheese-heads," asking hard questions and answering them with his unique brand of heartland comedy. Taped during a live performance at a restored vaudeville theater in Sheboygan, Davis's program tackles the differences between men and women, honors war veterans, and offers personal anecdotes sure to make listeners crack a smile more than once. Much like Davis's popular radio show, "Lighten Up!", this live performance pokes good-natured fun at the minutiae of modern life while reminding us how to find joy.
