This is just a collection of strips including how Jeremy and Dad -relationship and characters have developed and how the writers have got the ideas for the characters, their clothing, the typical topics and problems with teenager and his father. It is still a hilarious collection to read even if I had read the same ones before. The notes made by the authors also reveal the ideas behind the cartoons and characters and it is interesting to see how much the characters relate to the real world and issues. Part of me was confused when the authors describe that the parents background is based on 1960s (like it is in the cartoon) with all the old fashioned clothes and memories of roadtrips in 1960s... but then Jeremy is teenager now with ipods... So the age difference of a parent who had lived their young adult life in 1960s and today's teenagers, is huge! The technology has changed so much of how we communicate and relate to other people. But if the parents had been teens or young adults in 1960s then they should be around 70 year old today when Jeremy is 16 year old? They must have got their children really late because the other son is at college.. The parents still look like they are middle aged, and not senior citizens. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Buy all of Jim Borgman's books. Your kids will swipe them all. By Stan Lee The best way to understand teenagers is to enjoy a good laugh at everyone involved. This includes Mom and Pop, the kids themselves and their friends, and yourselves. All subjects that embarrass us are treated with gentle irony, including the ones we dance around, such as our appearance, our awkward mannerisms, and the boy/girl thing. I wish I had these cartoon books when I was a sub-teen. My grandkids love them, too. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Fun compilation of strips with Dad in them. also comments from authors By Weather Nut I have not read all of the zits books yet so this book was a blast! If you have read every other book this will not have any new material in it. It has strips pulled from the entire history of Zits and every one has dad in it. The book also has comments from the authors every few pages on strips that they found interesting and gives new insight into the authors family's. Some of the strips are labeled "taken from our own household". I found these strips and notes to be an extra fun thing to read. Overall a fun collection with dad (Walt) taking front stage!

The perfect Father's Day gift. This hilarious collection of Zits comic strips chronicles the perplexing, infuriating, and loving relationship between teenager and father, serving as an entertaining guide to the peculiar art of parenting a teenager. Appearing in more than 1,600 newspapers worldwide in 43 countries and 15 languages, Zits is an enormously popular comic strip. It is consistently rated in the top 5 favorites of readers all over the world. What's harder: being a teenager or being the father of a teenager? The answer, of course, depends on whom you ask. This hilarious collection of Zits comic strips chronicles the perplexing, infuriating, and loving relationship between teenager and father, serving as an entertaining guide to the peculiar art of parenting a teenager. In Jeremy and Dad, angst-filled 16-year-old Jeremy Duncan bursts with the questions, concerns, hormones, and insecurities every teenager has, while Walt, Jeremy's well-meaning father, struggles to pry words--not full sentences, just words--from his son. Zits has twice been honored with the award for Best Newspaper Comic Strip by the National Cartoonists Society and received the "Max and Moritz" award for Best International Comic Strip in 2000.

About the Author Co-creator Jim Borgman and his wife are the proud parents of five children. He has also won a Reuben Award and a Pulitzer Prize. Both he and Jerry have LOTS of experience with teenagers. Jerry Scott is the co-creator of the award-winning comic strip Zits. He lives in central coastal California. Jerry's work on Baby Blues has delighted fans and wowed the cartooning world since he launched the strip with Rick Kirkman in 1990.
