StanleyHas a lot of funny stories and I love the basic recipies...I can use in my Beach Trip Cook Book0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. more than recipesBy bearridgeI read the other book about the Iron Lake Gang, Ernie and Gershom, so I gave this one a try.....my first recipe book. I can't wait to prepare some of the recipes, but reading the stories about the recipes gave me one of the most pleasant afternoons in quite a while. A glass of red wine, a light breeze and a sunny spring day on the patio with this book is hard to beat.Has me wondering what Gershom has in mind next.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. A fun food story book!By TomKitchen Stories From the Iron Lake Fishing Club is just plane fun to read. If you are looking for a taste of the UP of Michigan Louisiana camp cooking, this is one good way to get it. With a blend of stories and recipes from the bayou's of the south to the great lakes, you can't beet this handy cook book. By the way the recipes are fun at home too!

Sometimes the best things in life are the simple things. Ernie and the guys at the Iron Lake Fishing Club like to keep things simple and that applies to kitchen work, too. When a number of fans of "THE IRON LAKE FISHING CLUB" published in 2010 asked for more camp recipes he chose almost sixty favorites and cooking tips with more camp stories and some local color collected over several decades and put them together for folks in fishing and hunting camps to use and enjoy. These are "things that a man can cook with what's in the cupboard and put a hot meal on the table when it's too dark to fish" says Ernie. After reading the recipes, the kitchen tips and the KITCHEN STORIES you'll feel as if you've had your feet under the table at the Iron Lake Fishing Club. This is a collection of recipes and kitchen ideas all wrapped up with tales and stories from the far north and the deep south. Everything from Yooper Venison Stew to Alligator is included along with tips to keep your cast iron in tip top shape and entertain the grand-kids on a rainy day. In the north they chill their beer in the lake and in Louisiana you can fry a Grilled Cheese Sandwich on the hood of your truck. So, pull up a chair, get something to drink and join the Club.

About the AuthorKeith Davis lives and works in South Eastern Louisiana with his wife Diane, having moved there from the woods of Michigan's Upper Penninsula in 2004. The two areas, home to several diverse cultures and histories, motivated him to assemble a group of letters, many based on actual experience. What started out as just some random E-mails to friends became a monthly serial in a local magazine. The book of camp recipes and stories was the natural follow-up. Mr. Davis was born in Wisconsin, and lived and worked there, then New York State, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. And, while winter snow and boiled potatoes for dinner seemed normal in those places, he has learned to appreciate the sunny warmth of the South as well as fresh shrimp, local peaches and bread pudding with bourbon sauce. Prior to this time his writings have been published in a variety of popular magazines and trade periodicals and the book, IRON LAKE FISHING CLUB.
