October Jones : Texts from Dog before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Texts from Dog:

I've been a fan of Texts from Dog on Facebook and Tumblr for a long time, but just recently found out there was a book. I purchased the Kindle version, and found no issues with formatting/etc. I just love this dog -- a bit paranoid, somewhat insecure, delusional (aren't most dogs?), and he knows how to text. A lot of the texts were new to me, so that was a real treat. Highly recommended for the dog lover. Looking forward to a sequel! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I loved it when I found these online By Mr. Fancy Pants Hilarious. I loved it when I found these online, and now I can buy the book! This is a gift for a friend, but I might get my own, it's too good. Great price, fast shipping, A+. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Texts from Dog Calendar By Dog Lover This has some really raunchy humor but I still love it. Some of this stuff is laugh out loud. Plan on buying it again next year.

My dog sends me texts. Yeah. It's weird. When October Jones figured out he could send text messages to himself on his mobile phone, he naturally decided that the best use of this discovery was to send passive-aggressive messages to himself under the guise of his bulldog. And so the exasperating, slightly delusional, and utterly endearing Dog and his alter-ego BatDog were born. Texts from Dog features Dog's attempts to keep the neighborhood safe from the likes of Mr. Postman and his arch-nemesis Cat-Cat—he has managed to only smash three TVs and a patio door in the process. And in between crime fighting sprees and run-ins with the squirrel mafia, there are romantic interludes with pillows, fetch sessions gone terribly awry, and the abusive banter only a bromance between man and his text-savvy dog can spawn. For those of us who have ever had a conversation with a pet in our heads, Texts from Dog will make you laugh out loud and perhaps even make you think twice about leaving your pet home alone for the day.

"Texts From Dog is the best tumblr about text messages from a dog ever. And I mean it.'--Dave Stopera
